Currently, claims 1-4 are generic.

V. Surfactants. Four types of surfactants are recited in claims 22-25 namely:

xxx. Non-ionic (claim 22) with numerous species recited in claim 22.

yyy. Ionic (claim 23) with numerous species recited in claim 23.

zzz. Zwitterionic (claim 24) with numerous species recited in claim 24.

aaaa. Triton X-100 or Triton X-114 (claim 25)

Currently, claims 1-4 are generic.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species from each of the above sets I-V to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable.

That means applicant must elect a single species of chemical reaction from set I, a single species of reactant from set II, a single species of inert phase from set III, a single species of change from set IV and a single species of surfactant from set V. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

2. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

The inventions listed in claims 1- 36 do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: The methods recited in claim(s) 1 is known in the Art.

The method of claim 1 is taught by Kato et. al. (1991) in the paper entitled "Effect of preparation conditions of enzyme- encapsulating w/o/w emulsion on enzymatic NAD⁺-recycling in the emulsion".

Thus methods of claim(s) 1-3, and claims 5-10,13, 21-28, 30-33 (in part) cannot therefore be considered a special technical feature. The expression "special technical features" refers to those features that define a contribution which each of the claimed inventions, considered as a whole, makes over the prior art. The lack of unity rules hold that a feature known to a person of ordinary skill in the art cannot be considered special technical feature. Therefore unity of invention is lacking.

Accordingly, species of claims 1-36 are not so linked by the same or corresponding special technical feature as to form a single general inventive concept.
